Master of Divinity

The Master of Divinity is an outstanding award for any person with a prior degree who is interested in studying theology for the first time and is looking for a thorough grounding in the Bible, theology and ministry studies. A three-year course will enable you to engage the breadth of theology deeply.

Master of Theological Studies

If you're looking for a shorter Masters degree to give you a taste of theological studies, this might be the right fit. In this two-year program, you have the flexibility to focus on the particular areas of theology that interest you most.

Master of Theology

To enter the Master of Theology you will need a prior degree in theology or ministry. This program aims to help you deepen and expand on the knowledge and skills you have acquired from your first theology award. With the flexibility to take units that appeal to you, the Master of Theology is the ideal degree for those serious about professional development or preparing for a research program.
